A Salute To Our Military...

Everyone knows someone who has served in the armed forces or has a family member that has served. A soldier's journey requires inner strength to carry them through the tasks they are called upon to perform.

Often our men and women who have fulfilled their mission and return home find the life they remembered is not what now confronts them. The discipline of military survival takes a toll. The places they have been and the events they have seen sometimes pull deeper than physical harm; it can pull deep into their soul. The unity is gone and their fellow comrades are no longer by their side. A lonely feeling fills them in spite of being in familiar surroundings amongst friends and loved ones. The soldier's journey is a necessary one since our very existence depends on men and women willing to put country first.

Veterans and patriots know, to some degree, what these warriors are experiencing and have banded together to provide a means where there is a person to call, share a similar experience, and provide a leaning post or a sounding board.

HAVE A LAUGH

A police officer jumps into his squad car and calls the station. "I have an interesting case here," he says. "A woman shot her husband for stepping on the floor she just mopped." "Have you arrested her?" asks the sergeant. "No, not yet. The floor's still wet."

HOW ABOUT A FEW BRAIN TEASERS

- 1) Why can't a Realtor living in North Carolina, but born in South Carolina, be buried in South Carolina?
- 2) If you went to bed at 8 o'clock at night and wound your alarm clock to go off at 9:00 the next morning, how much sleep would you get?
- 3) A man married 48 women. None of them died and he was never divorced and he was one of the most admired men in town. How come?

ANSWERS

- 1) He could, but he would be pretty uncomfortable being buried alive.
- 2) One hour windup clocks don't have AM/PM settings.
- 3) He's the town minister.

The feeling of someone being on their side and who has their back often ignites that small spark that keeps them from slipping through the cracks. The effect works both ways and builds strength for all.

Warriors Veteran Outreach is a local group of veterans and patriots with only one goal: "No Veteran Left Behind." A small measure of help and comfort to the widows, homeless, those seeking care, and the countless veterans who are thinking about calling it quits are some of those who require a helping hand reaching out. Call the veteran you know; say thanks to them for their service and tell them about us. 100% of our resources goes to helping veterans. We have strength in numbers and we have been provided with a strong community.
